The screenshot displays a code editor with three open files, all named 'request.html'. The first file on the left shows the complete HTML document, including the head with a title 'Plasma-Request' and a body containing a registration form. The second and third files on the right show a zoomed-in view of the form's internal structure, focusing on the 'form-group' and 'col-sm-4' classes used for styling and layout. The form includes fields for name, email, age, hospital, and gender, along with a 'submit' button.
